Her crew had been saved by the British steamer "T. H. Perry" after being adrift for seven days.

SATO COMES TO UNITED STATES.

Importance Attached to Visit of Exchange Professor.

Tokio, Japan, December 13.—The importance attached by Japan to Professor Sato, of the Shodanai School, who is arriving to lecture in the United States as exchange professor, was indicated by the official farewell dinner given him by the official staff, well-known men, such as Prof. Makino, Prof. Fukuzawa, Prof. Yamamoto, and Prof. Okuma, minister of Education.

Baron Makino declared that visits of this kind were of the greatest value in promoting wider knowledge of Japan among Americans, and in removing existing misunderstandings.

Professor Sato is to lecture at the agricultural college of Tokio University. He was formerly a student at Johns Hopkins University.
